Felix Guattari

Creative and a process – which mean that there is a number of constructions, diagrams and even creative acts in the more daily life sense.

Molecular revolution – that we can just produce more of that.

A typing assistant to join you on this process. Set off a number of processes – even writing a letter is a process.

It produces – film list, messaging and telephone even jokes, and finally collections, and film stills, watching a short film – perhaps I-Max I – even processes coming out of this on one's table, or with the Kindle – a objective checker – and a phone call and perhaps voice mail – and even processes of creative interaction on virtual video and even plans to meet – forms of connectivities which is actually a number of connections – like creating a small map of Israel – even a small Jewish scripture – a number of plans on photograph communication – all this and theory as well – newspapers – hanging out – logic of sense book buying – forms of libraries – forms of difference and repetition – in singular direction – school forums – forms of forum debates on a forum on Deterior – and such discussions which are all in the typing assistant in fact even on Kindle, or other stuff.